

Transforming complex plant research data into better decisions

Phenome Networks: the data platform for plant research

Phenome Networks is the global leading software provider for the seed industry, serving breeders and researchers worldwide for over 18 years. Created by plant researchers for plant researchers, PhenomeOne centralizes breeding and variety testing data in one platform. By simplifying workflows and analysis, we enable teams to make educated data-driven decisions, speed up innovation, and deliver new products to market faster.

Modern breeding requires modern tools

Data is the engine of modern breeding and breeding programs generate massive, complex data that often remains stuck in legacy systems. Phenome Networks unifies all data in a single cloud-based platform, helping teams make smarter, faster decisions from seed to market.
